GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres. —
September again. Daylight comes slowly and the hill tops across the valley catch those first rays of light. As the sun slowly pulls up over the horizon there are white gray mists or wisps of fog over the pond; then begin to move upward.

Most of August's sticky humidity has gone. It is a time of cool-edged breezes from the west. At noon it is sunny and pleasant, a good time to be in the open and view the world from high up.

On Tuesday the usual four did that. We took the new trail recently opened to Look Out Rock near South Arm. It was lovely and cool through the hard woods. Then near the summit there were thick stands of evergreens. We listened to the sharp hiss and rustle of the wind in the glossy leaves and the soft, lifting, hushing tones in the evergreens.

Arriving at Look Out Rock, a massive granite "platform," we could see far up and down the valley and parts of the lake.

On the sloping shoulders of the mountains, and granite topped ridges the white birches, hemlocks, pines, and spruces with steeples high, were outlined against the blue, cloud patched sky. It was a longer climb then we anticipated but worth-while when we reached the top. We rested and enjoyed the view then returned to journey home.

Along the road sides are the autumn flowers. Towering above others are the Joe-pye weeds; not a fragile bloom but eye arresting. These are exuberant flowers lifting their royal purple pennants and foretelling autumn.

"Now every leaf that glistens Is a jewel in the sun Along the wooded byways Where autumn's wealth is flung. How warmly now the earth enfolds Her treasures one by one. The lane is bright, more deeply full, With jewels in the sun." (Joy B. Burgess)

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and son, Daniel, Bangor, were week end visitors of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt.

Mrs. Zylpha DiArenzo and son, who have spent the summer at their cottage here have returned to their home in Pennsylvania. Her daughter Jane, and three friends arrived Saturday for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morgan had high, were outlined against the blue, cloud patched sky. It was a longer climb then we anticipated but worth-while when we reached the top. We rested and enjoyed the view then returned to journey home.

HELP STOP BIRTH DEFECTS SUPPORT WIPE OUT GERMAN MEASLES WEEK, SEPT. 20

A Child With a Birth Defect Can Break Your Heart

Rumford Community Hospital, with the cooperation of the Maine Department of Health and Welfare and area public health nurses, will sponsor
"Wipe Out German Measles Week," Sept. 20, in a concentrated effort to wipe out German measles in this area. And the best way to do this is by mass immunization of children, thereby eliminating the spread of disease. This will help stop birth defects.

What Causes Birth Defects?
One of the major causes of birth defects is German measles. Known as the three-day measles, or Rubel-la, this is a common childhood disease, usually mild and of short duration. If you've had it, you're immune for life. But, other diseases look like German Measles. Even a physician can't always be 100% sure in diagnosing German Measles. Many people think they've had it, when they haven't.

The American Medical Association says that every child should be immunized against German Measles whether or not he has a history of German Measles. Histories are too indefinite to be dependable and all children—particularly girls—should be protected. Protection is believed to be life long and will alleviate the fears of future generations as today's girls become women of tomorrow.

How Does German Measles Cause Birth Defects?
An expectant mother who gets German Measles in early pregnancy can transmit the disease to her unborn child. The chances are fifty-fifty that the baby will be stillborn or have a birth defect. Defects include blindness, deafness, heart disease, and mental retardation. During the epidemic of 1964, as many as 50,000 babies were affected.

What Can YOU Do About It?
German Measles infections spread rapidly through the unimmunized, particularly children. The new vaccine which provides immunity against German Measles is safe and effective. To stop the "chain of infection," all children between the ages of one and 12 should be immunized before the next expected epidemic of German Measles in 1971.

Dates of Free Clinics — Be Sure Your Child Attends:
All pre-school children in this area can receive free immunizations at the following clinics:

Sunday, Sept. 20, Rumford Middle School, 1:00 to 4:00 p. m.
Sunday, Sept. 20, Bethel Congregational Church, 1:00 to 3:00 p. m.
Wednesday, Sept. 23, Rumford Community Hospital, 7:00 to 8:00 p. m.

Students in the Rumford School District entering in September may also receive their immunizations at Mrs. Mundt.

Mrs. Edith Littlefield was guest of honor at a birthday dinner party on Sunday, Aug. 30, at Littlefield Beaches. Those present were:
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richards, Scott Richards and Sue Wagner of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and family of Rumford; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kelley of Westbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Morey and family; Mrs. Eva Kennedy, West Paris; Mrs. Marjorie Mc-Allister and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bangs and Deanne.

DANCE AND THE CHILD Wonderous things can happen to the child who goes to dance school.
There are the obvious advantages of developing strength and coordination, improving posture, learning numerous exercises and dance steps, gaining the self confidence to perform onstage.

Underlying the obvious, there can be more. With development of strength and coordination can come an awareness of the fascinating structure of one's body and healthy attitudes toward its use and care.
Learning and practicing exercises and steps can mean striving and reaching for goals, goals meted out in attainable doses. Performing onstage can be a meaningful and memorable experience.

The dance class offers rich rewards to its students—discipline of mind and body, love of dance and good music, a sense of diligence and continuous pursuit of excellence, and a just pride in worthwhile endeavor.
Improved posture and standing tall can mean "feeling tall and thinking tall." A child may find at dance school whole new vistas of thought, of movement, of beauty, and, yes, of dreams. Indeed, the promises that dance school holds for its students are as endless as the minds and hearts of its teacher and students.
Teaching creatively starts with imagination and ideas. Most children are filled with both of these. His world is filled with fantasy; fantasy which is utilized frequently when we as teachers, parents or friends begin to dim the lights in his treasury house of imagination.
What of the hundreds of children who, at the age of four, seem to possess this cherished capacity and who, at the age of nine, seem to have had it dimmed so that it is no longer a source of rich fulfillment?

Could it be true that through hours of unguided television, stereotyped toys, unimaginative teaching methods and lack of vision, we are stuffing the very thing that will help bring each child his greatest moments of happiness? To be free to see-think-explore, to fully use one's imagination, requires great discipline, order and habit, within each newly acquired freedom lies routine and discipline factors which are greatly misconstrued in the minds of many people when they hear the word "creativity."

Working imaginatively with people does not just mean today we will listen to this music and follow what it tells us to do—take these paints and paper to draw anything we desire—take this set of blocks to build whatever comes to mind. This theory represents only a minute part of creative guidance. The constant urging of the mind and body to reach out in new directions: to give sufficient inspiration to the individual so that with each new venture there is the desire for knowledge, understanding and persistence. There is nothing that takes the place of persistence. Talent will not. Genius will not. The world is filled with people of talent who are unsuccessful.

Young people in dance school can begin to formulate a philosophy of life. Only through diligent effort and the penetrating forces of one's best physical and mental energies does any project begin to assume the qualities of character and value.

WEEK IN OXFORD CO.

A South Paris woman, Mrs. John Phillips, was taken to the Stephens for treatment of burns suffered in an oven explosion at her home. Fire Chief Harold Edwards said the explosion was apparently caused by an accumulation of gas.

Mrs. Bill Keoskie and daughter of this week with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brooks.

A PASSING THOUGHT Education should create in people a desire and commitment to keep on learning the rest of their lives. All too often people stop learning and/or thinking when their formal education ceases. Many times this is true regardless of when their schooling was completed at the elementary, secondary or college level, whether it was three months, five years, a decade, or 50 years ago.

the Rumford Middle School Clinic.
In addition, any school child who was unable to receive the vaccination in school last spring may also attend.

School children in Bethel will have a special school clinic on Sept. 22.
In the Mexico, Dixfield, Peru area

girls become women of tomorrow.

Letters to the Editor
August 30, 1970
Bethel, Maine

Dear Editor,
This is not a comment nor an observation. This is a plea.

As far as I know, there is no coach for the field hockey team at Telstar. None of the staff who have been approached are willing to devoted their time to us girls. Consequently, I am making this plea to any qualified adult in the community. Won't someone give a little of their time to help our team?

Some say girls' sports aren't important. I challenge this statement.
To me they are nearly as important as my studies. While classwork developes my mind, sports develop or help develop my character. They develop sportsmanship, leadership and many other fine qualities in a person. I have always had a problem of being painfully shy. Even so, last year, my second year on a hockey team, I was elected co-captain along with Sue Hutchins.

Unless one of you people volunteers your services, there will be no hockey team this year. Please help us.
Sincerely,
Merrilee Lee Butters

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Chase were afternoon callers at the Yates Friday. Mrs. Laura Adams, Gregory and Lorene, were at her parents Friday. Oh yes, "Sunshine" the dog came too.

Saw by the paper we may get our tax bills during September. It will be nice to get them before they start charging interest on them won't it? When we first came to Bethel we had three men from our own town to run our affairs and we used to get our tax bills by summer, any way—of earlier—sent in by Eva Yates.
